

LIONBRIDGE LIFE SCIENCES

Delivering Safe Medicine Globally Takes Precision and Passion

Now is a defining moment for life sciences organizations. As global unmet medical needs expand, both the clinical trial landscape and existing and emerging markets broaden. Industry regulations worldwide are becoming increasingly complex. Reaching your customers and communities of patients takes more than translation—it takes experience, understanding, and care. It's your job to develop the life-saving drugs and devices that make the world a healthier place. Let us be your compliance partner, helping you with the details and deliverables you need to bring your messages and products to the world—safely, accurately, and efficiently.

Now more than ever, life sciences organizations, as with our company, are confronting rapidly evolving and increasingly global business needs, including clinical and regulatory efforts, training, e-learning, and global marketing. Putting the expertise of Lionbridge to work has gained us operational efficiencies across our worldwide businesses.

We Speak Your Language

Speaking about life sciences—whether for clinical trials, drug labeling, or in marketing materials—takes time, attention, and understanding of stringent regulatory requirements.

We can help. Our team partners with yours to turn sensitive, complex, and frequently-changing content into words that resonate with every end user—from regulatory boards to care providers to patients—around the world. Our clients include pharmaceutical, medical device, medical publishing, and healthcare companies as well as Contract Research Organizations (CROs). Each demands strict attention to detail, expert understanding of nuanced requirements, and the utmost care for the end user.
